

College of Humanities, Arts,
and Social Sciences
DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS

November 14, 2013

Dear Colleague:

I am writing to call your attention to the two positions in our department in development economics. One of them is a senior faculty position (Full Professor or Associate Professor) and the other is a tenure track Assistant Professor Position. The details are provided in the attached advertisements which will appear in the November issue of Job Openings for Economists (JOE). It will also appear earlier, among other places, in the National Economic Research Association Electronic Newsletter and The Chronicle of Higher Education.

I would appreciate it if you would bring this to the attention of anyone you think would be appropriate and interested.

The University of California, Riverside has entered in a period of rapid growth, which has increased our size now to approximately 21,000. Also, both the undergraduate and graduate programs in our economics department are strong and have increased. It has a strong research department of economics, which will expand from its present size of 19. That may mean we will be recruiting more economists over the next 3 years or so.

You or anyone you recommend should feel free to contact me for more information. The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

Thank you for your kind assistance.

Sincerely yours,

Aman Ullah
Chair

900 University Avenue
4128 Sproul Hall
Riverside, CA 92521
Tel 951.827.3266
Fax 951.827.5685
www.economics.ucr.edu

OPEN RANK POSITION IN DEVELOPMENT ECONOMICS

Department of Economics University of California, Riverside

The UCR Economics Department invites applications for an open rank faculty position in development economics. Responsibilities include developing a strong research program and teaching/advising undergraduate and graduate students. Applicants should have an established record of outstanding research accomplishment; they will also be expected to guide the research of doctoral students, to be committed to a continuing, state-of-the-art research program, to provide leadership in the department, and to develop collaborative relationships with other units on campus, such as the new Schools of Medicine and of Public Policy. Salary will be competitive and commensurate with education and experience. The appointment will commence on July 1, 2014.

Applications should include a letter of interest, CV, and sample of research work. For the Assistant Professor's rank 3-5 letters of recommendation, and, for the Associate/Full Professor's rank names and contact information of 3-5 references, need to be submitted. Review of the applications will begin December 7, 2013 and will continue until the position is filled.

Application materials for the junior level (Assistant Professor) position should be submitted to <https://aprecruit.ucr.edu/apply/jpf00017>. Application materials for the senior level (Associate or Full Professor) position should be submitted to <https://aprecruit.ucr.edu/apply/jpf00016>. Hard copy applications may be submitted to the Department of Economics, University of California, Riverside, CA 92521. Electronic application and submission of materials is strongly preferred.

The University of California, Riverside, is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

TENURE TRACK POSITION IN DEVELOPMENT ECONOMICS

Department of Economics
University of California, Riverside

The UCR Economics Department invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor appointment in development economics. We are particularly interested in candidates with a strong command of applied econometrics and whose research employs cutting-edge empirical methods to explore substantive issues in development. Responsibilities include developing a strong research program and teaching/advising undergraduate and graduate students. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Economics or related field by the time of appointment, and they will be expected to teach at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Applicants are expected to have demonstrated commitment to high-quality scholarly research. Salary will be competitive and commensurate with education and experience. The appointment will commence on July 1, 2014.

Applications should include a letter of interest, CV, sample of research work, and three letters of recommendation. Review of the applications will begin on December 7, 2013, and will continue until the position is filled.

Application materials should be submitted to <https://aprecruit.ucr.edu/apply/jpf00018>, or to the Department of Economics, University of California, Riverside, CA 92521. Electronic application and submission of materials is strongly preferred.

The University of California, Riverside, is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

OPEN-RANK POSITION IN REGIONAL/URBAN DEVELOPMENT POLICY

University of California, Riverside

The UCR School of Public Policy (SPP) and the College of Humanities, Arts and Social Sciences (CHASS) invite applications for a tenure-track, open-rank appointment in regional/urban development policy. The appointment will be at the Assistant, Associate or Full Professor rank and will be shared jointly between the SPP and a relevant CHASS department (e.g., Anthropology, Economics, Political Science or Sociology). We are looking for candidates with a research record and policy interest in urbanization, housing, transportation, land-use planning, poverty, migration, population growth, health disparities, or economic development in a comparative setting – especially those who are interested in applying lessons from around the world to regional development and planning issues in inland Southern California.

Applicants for Assistant Professor rank are expected to have demonstrated commitment to high-quality scholarly research. For Associate/Full Professor rank, applicants should have an established record of outstanding research accomplishment and teaching; they will be expected to teach and guide the research of Master's and doctoral students, to be committed to a continuing cutting-edge research program that has direct implications for policy reform, and to help build the new School of Public Policy. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in a related discipline, such as public policy, anthropology, demography, economics, sociology or political science by the time of appointment. Salary will be competitive and commensurate with education and experience. The appointment will commence on July 1, 2014.

Applications should include a letter of interest, a CV, and a sample of research work. For the Assistant Professor rank three letters of recommendation, and, for the Associate/Full Professor rank names and contact information of 3-5 references, need to be submitted. All materials must be uploaded using UCR's on-line application system located at <https://aprecruit.ucr.edu/apply/JPF00046> for Assistant Professors or <https://aprecruit.ucr.edu/apply/JPF00047> for Associate or Full Professors. Review of the applications will begin December 15, 2013 and will continue until the position is filled. To ensure full consideration, applications and supporting material should be received by December 29, 2013.

The University of California, Riverside, is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.