Northern Practicum Application (Winter Term 2027) in Partnership with Frontier School Division

Indigenous Partnerships and Learning: School in Frontier School Division work closely with Indigenous students, families, Elders, Knowledge Keepers, and the community. Briefly describe how you would approach building respectful relationships and partnerships with Indigenous students, families, and community members during your practicum. What does meaningful collaboration and learning alongside Indigenous communities look like to you?

Living in a northern community will require being away from your usual supports and routines. What strategies will you use to maintain your wellbeing and professional responsibilities during placement?

Northern practicum placements may provide opportunities to engage in outdoor and land-based learning experiences. While expertise is not expected, a willingness to participate and learn is important. Please describe how you would approach these opportunities and what you hope to gain from them.

What lived experiences, strengths, experiences, or perspectives would help you succeed in a northern practicum placement?

Next Steps in the Selection Process

Applicants selected to move forward in the process may be invited to participate in an interview and/or provide additional information to support their application. Successful completion of the application process does not guarantee a placement. Final placements are subject to placement availability, candidate readiness, successful completion of the applicable Practicum I course with a grade of PASS, overall good standing in the B.Ed. program, and other factors as determined by the Director, Practicum and Partnerships and Frontier School Division.
