

RESEARCH SEMINAR SERIES

DISRUPTING KINESIOLOGY-AS-USUAL

MAR. 15, 2024 | 2:30 P.M. | ALC 220

Presented by Moss Norman, an associate professor at the University of British Columbia, Disrupting Kinesiology-as-Usual: Barriers and Possibilities for Engaging non-Western Knowledges of Health and Movement explores the lack of racial diversity at the faculty level and a culture of Eurocentrism and Whiteness in teaching and research.

MOSS NORMAN

Associate Professor, School of Kinesiology
University of British Columbia

Moss Norman's scholarship falls within the broad disciplinary area of the socio-cultural study of sport and physical activity, with a research emphasis on men, masculinity and the body.

Faculty of Kinesiology and Recreation Management

UMANITOBA.CA/KINREC