

JCAN (Japan-Canada Academic Network) List

Target Researchers

Researchers who have research ties with Japan and are currently based in Canada.

Researchers who meet at least one of the following criteria:

- ✓ Have previously stayed and conducted research at a Japanese research institution for a total of one year or more.
- ✓ Have co-authored a paper with a researcher affiliated with a Japanese research institution within the past five years.
- ✓ Have participated in (or are currently participating in) an ongoing collaborative research project with a Japanese company or similar entity.

Benefits of creating a list

Proposals for destinations for young Japanese researchers to gain research experience

Invitations for new collaborations from Japanese institutions and researchers

Provision of information on overseas research cooperation in Japan (from the Embassy)

The list will be utilized by researchers in Japan who wish to challenge in Canada, and by universities and researchers seeking collaboration.
