Rules & Regulations

- The preliminary round will take place on one day, with the various performances split into three categories as follows:
 - 9:00-12:00: Piano/String applicants
 - 12:00-1:00: Break
 - 1:00-4:00: Voice applicants

- 4:00-5:00: Break
- 5:00-8:00 – Woodwinds/Brass/Percussion applicants
- There will be a maximum of three (3) finalists in each preliminary round, for a maximum total of nine (9) finalists. These finalists will perform at the Final Round competition.
- There will be three (3) winning performers. However, flexibility will be allowed when a very strong group of finalists compete allowing for a maximum of four (4) winning performers. Winners of the competition must be available for performance as indicated above.
- Music performed in the competition must be either a movement of a concerto or another major work. With respect to voice, the repertoire chosen must be orchestral or small chamber works – although exceptions are allowed for art song where the selections were originally orchestrated by the composer.
- Music must be performed with accompaniment – normally piano.
- Participants will perform the same music in both rounds, but may need to add a selection to the Final Round in order to meet the minimum performance time requirements.
- Although encouraged, music need not be performed from memory.
- One copy of the solo music must be provided to the judges and there must be an original copy of the music available in the hall during the performance.
- The Final Round of the competition is open to the public without admission charge.
- The decision of the judges is final, in both rounds.
