MPS Spring Institute on DSM-V

Register on or before May 6, 2013 and save on the June 7, 2013 MPS Spring Institute titled Developments in Mental Disorder Diagnosis: DSM-IV, DSM-V, and the Road Ahead featuring Dr. Robert Krueger. Dr. Krueger is a Hathaway Distinguished Professor in the Department of Psychology at the University of Minnesota, the Editor of the Journal of Personality Disorders, and is a member of the DSM-V Personality and Personality Disorder Working Group.

Synopsis: The American Psychiatric Association's Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders (5th Edition; DSM-V) is slated to be published in May 2013. This workshop will provide an overview of changes from DSM-IV to DSM-V, with particular emphasis on how DSM-V is (and is not) connected with empirical research in personality and individual differences. Working to enhance the connection between Psychiatry and individual differences research is critically important in ensuring an empirical basis for psychiatric nosology. The workshop will also focus on challenging practical issues that arise when classification systems such as the DSM are not in sync with data. For example, when a thorough assessment is completed, many if not most patients meet criteria for more than one specific DSM-defined disorder. Conceptualizing these presentations in terms of "multi-morbidity" is unlikely to prove helpful or illuminating. Rather, new ways of conceptualizing psychopathology are needed that better map the complex presentations typically encountered in clinical practice.
