

AG VISION WORKSHOP

For graduate students in the Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences

ORGANIZING YOUR RESEARCH WITH MENDELEY

Thursday, October 25, 2018 at 1:00 pm - FREE pizza lunch in the Agriculture Building Atrium at 12:30 pm

130 Agriculture Building

Facilitator: Vahid Sadrmanesh (PhD candidate, Biosystems Engineering)

- Are you having trouble managing the research papers you read?
- Would you like to be automatically notified of the most recent publications in your area?
- Do you want to know what papers your peers are writing/reading/citing?
- Are you getting bogged down by the different bibliographic formatting styles of journals?

If the answer to any of the above is 'yes', this workshop is for you!

Mendeley is a free reference manager from Elsevier that works on all platforms (Windows, Mac OS, Linux) and helps you build a reference library to organize your research, collaborate with your peers, manage literature, and create bibliographies.

Bring your device with you and we'll help you set up an account and show you how to be on your way to become a power user.

Ask your friends (even supervisors) to come along. But don't forget to RSVP by October 22, 2018 via Google Form
