

The Writing Toward a Just World Research
Cluster presents:

LISTENING: A TOOL IN STORYTELLING

JANINE WINDOLPH

Director of Indigenous Arts at the Banff Centre for Arts and Creativity

Friday, January 20th
2023
12 PM - 2 PM CT

in person at 307 Tier, Fort Garry Campus & Online
via Zoom Webinar

Please address questions to umih@umanitoba.ca
Registration closes - Wednesday, December 7th, 2022

LISTENING: A TOOL IN STORYTELLING

Janine Windolph (Atikamekw/Woodland Cree) was recently appointed to the Director of Indigenous Arts at the Banff Centre for Arts and Creativity, formally Associate Director and Acting Director. She also has experience as a Saskatchewan-based filmmaker in key roles as producer, director, writer and narrator for both a feature film called the Land of Rock and Gold and numerous documentaries over the past 15 years. Janine is known also as an educator, fine-craft artist, and storyteller. Prior, Janine was the Curator of Community Engagement at the MacKenzie Art Gallery in Regina, Saskatchewan. She has her Master of Fine Arts: Interdisciplinary in Indigenous Fine Art and Media Production. Janine is on the board of Prince of Trust Canada, Regina International Film Festival and Awards and she volunteers for the RIIS Commemorative Association, Inc.